Zoning OKd despite some complaints

The Upland Planning Commission unanimously adopted a zone change for about one acre on the northwest corner of Grove Avenue and Ninth Street last week despite repeated protests from the owners of property surrounding that corner.

The commission changed the zone from single family residential to general commercial. Owners Vivian and H.E. Jackson requested the change because, they said, they could find no one would buy the property for residential use. Vivian Jackson said she had to sell the property because she must move to the high desert to combat her respiratory problems.

Commissioner Hank Houston noted that the commission should not change zoning on any property because someone cannot sell a parcel or because nearby residents fear future development, but because that is the best possible use for that part of the city.

Vice Chairman Ed Sloman told the residents that with the major commercial development planned for the northwest corner of Grove Avenue and San Bernardino Road, residents one block below cannot hope for light traffic and no development nearby. City staff noted the other three corners of Grove and Ninth were zoned commercial.

Planning Director Bill Young assured the residents that, should the City Council approve the zone change next month, they are encouraged to return to the commission and comment on any proposed commercial development for that corner.

But the nearly 20 residents present agreed they wanted absolutely no commercial development on the corner. "We have enough noise... I get violent headaches," Michael Aguilar said. "I've been there since 1950... can't I spend my last few days in peace?" an elderly Josephine Ambler asked.

Sloman encouraged the residents to offer their comments to the City Council when that body considers final approval of the zone change.

Rebekah Lodge plans event

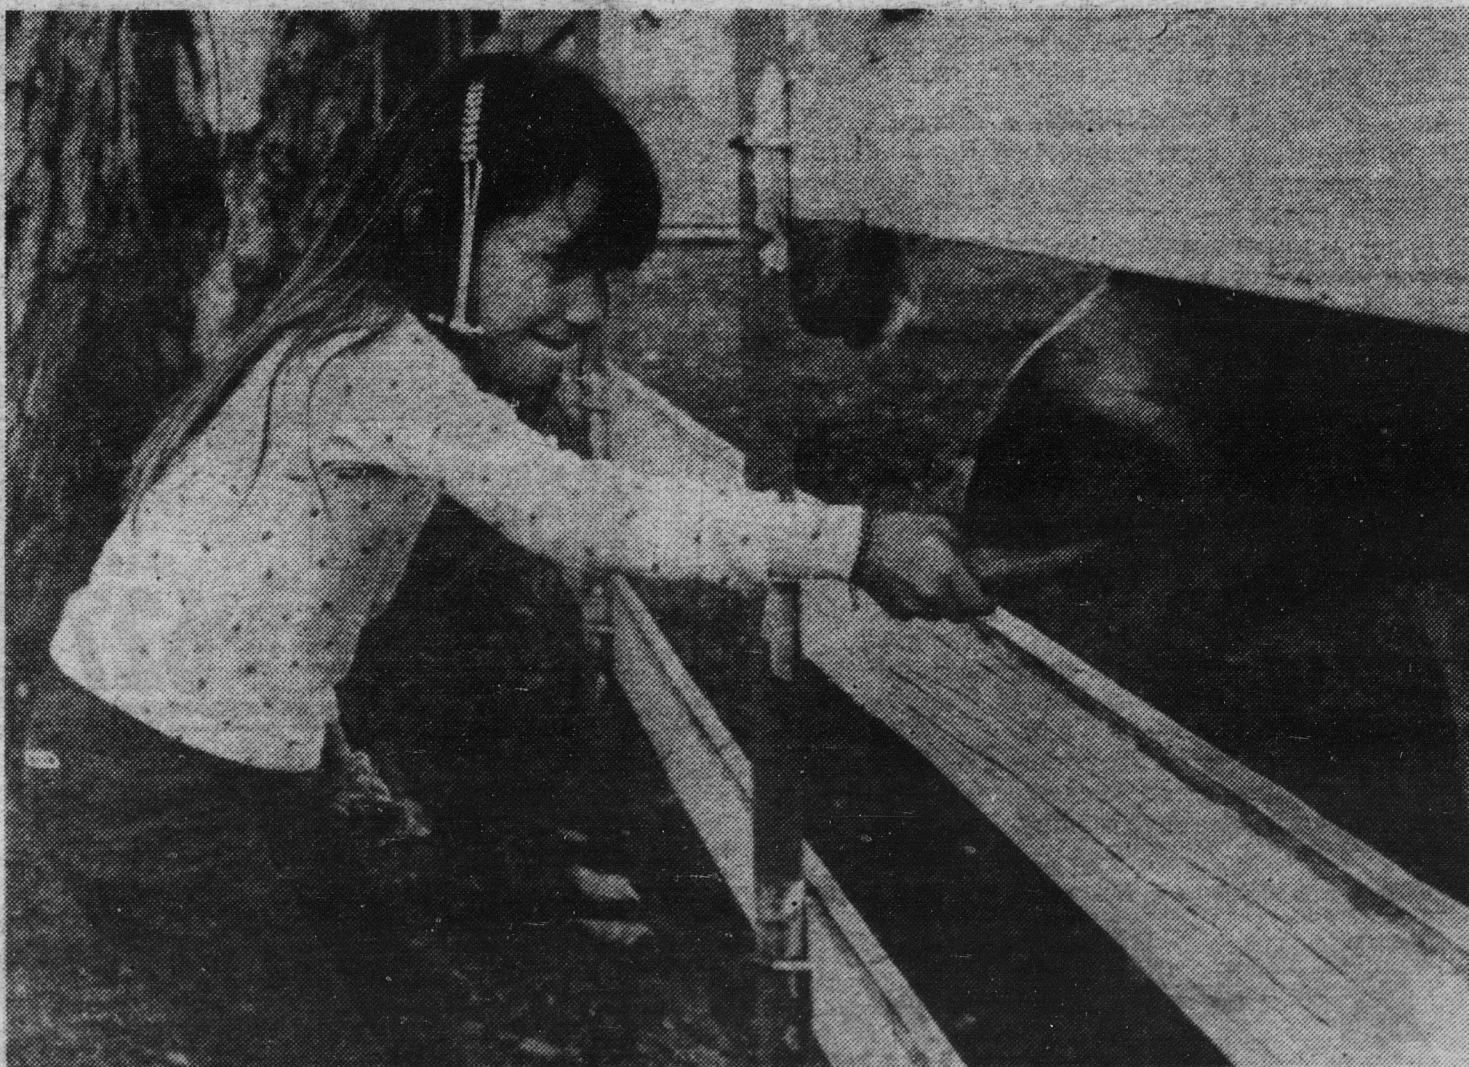

A salad bar luncheon, bake sale and sale of hand-made articles are on the agenda for May and June for the Silver Link Rebekah Lodge of Upland.

Past noble grands will be honored by the lodge on June 23 with a potluck beginning at 6 p.m. at the Odd Fellows Hall in Upland.

Also in the future plans are a round-up table planned by Mrs. Jess Roundy with members donating articles.

During a recent lodge meeting, Mrs. Hollis Sabre and Louise Vanderwilt joined the lodge by initiation, and Annabelle Abel was initiated for the Wisteria Rebekah Lodge of Claremont.

Mrs. Jay Rowberry has made a table cloth for the lodge's tea table, and members will buy squares, write their names in liquid embroidery on the squares, which will be sewn around the edges of the cloth. This will be a keepsake for the lodge.

Upland shopping center planned

Upland Partners has announced plans to build Upland Country Village at the southeast corner of Foothill Boulevard and Campus Avenue.

A spokesman said the project will include a 51,400-square-foot, $5-million group of quality retail stores serving the needs of buyers throughout the Pomona Valley.

The project is expected to be completed by the first quarter of 1983.

Upland Partners is a partnership involving Center Development of Newport Beach and DSL Service Co. of Costa Mesa.

The center will be anchored by a 16,000-square-foot Christian Farmer's Market, featuring a wide assortment of produce, meats, fresh seafood, baked goods and wines, as well as exotic produce and imported items.

It is the fifth such market to be located in Southern California.

James Mauge and John Gabriel of the Torrance office of Coldwell Banker Commercial Real Estate Services have been named by the developer to lease the project. They also represented Upland Partners in site selection and acquisition.

Upland Country Village will feature a rustic country-like motif, with heavy use of exposed, stained woods and landscaping.

Shop modules will range from 900 square feet to 12,000 square feet. Two building pads of 4,500 square feet and 5,000 square feet have been designed for a financial institution and a restaurant.

Upland Partners cited as a key factor in its decision to undertake the project a population growth of more than 30 percent in the past decade within the primary trade area of the center. Another reason for its decision was the fact that the average income within the same area more than doubled during the same period, according to statistics provided by the city of Upland.

Slides of Europe at Upland Library

Herman Serdoz will show slides of his recent two-month tour of Europe at 2 p.m. May 5 in the multi-purpose room of the Upland Public Library, 450 N. Euclid Ave., Upland.

Highlights will be sights of London, Paris, Geneva and Florence.

Also shown will be the Isle of Capri, Pompeii and the resort area of Yugoslavia.

The public is invited to this free program. For further information, call 981-1033.

Service award bestowed

The Pioneer Junior High School Parent-Teacher Association in Upland selected Sharon MacFarlane as the recipient of its Honorary Service Award for 1982.

MacFarlane has been a room mother for eight years, a classroom volunteer, a Blue Bird and Girl Scout leader, and a team mother for Little League and soccer. She has served on PTA boards for both Pioneer Junior High School and Valencia School.

MacFarlane, as part of the Las Vecinas de Valencia club, has raised funds for mentally retarded children. She has raised money for the John Tracy Clinic as part of the Brentwood Junior Women's Club.

Cincinnati Bengals all-pro tackle to speak at Chaffey Career Day

Cincinnati Bengals all-pro tackle Anthony Munoz will be a guest speaker today at Chaffey High School's Career Day.

Munoz, who graduated from Chaffey in 1976, will address students during an assembly at 8:45 a.m. in Gardiner Spring Auditorium.

The assembly will cap the three-day event designed to put students in touch with representatives from a variety of occupations.

Roger Dunlap, coordinator for the school's Work Experience Program, said Munoz is expected to speak on his high school, college and pro career.

This will be the school's first career day since 1977, Dunlap said.

Members of the Gallery Theater, many of whom are students or former students of Chaffey, will perform during the assembly. The K-9 Corps will also perform.

"Career day is designed to bring in people from the community in different facets of careers," Dunlap said, "and to make available to students first-hand information on what's available in those businesses."

"It will give students a

Dunlap said representatives from business will speak to various classes on Tuesday and Wednesday.

"It's been maddening," he said. "The kids have been in here and just about every period is jammed. It's been a tremendous response from the students."

"They are really enthusiastic."

In addition, businesses will set up displays in the school's south quad on Tuesday and Thursday.

Representatives from Southern California Edison, General Telephone, the Ontario Police Department, Crocker National Bank, John Robert Powers, the California Highway Patrol, Western Temporary Services, the

Storage-for-connection trade proposed

By BOB NAGEY
Staff Writer

An agreement in which the West End Joint Powers Authority would receive a $13 million water connection in exchange for permitting the state and the Metropolitan Water District to use the large Chino Basin for water storage has been proposed.

A condition of the proposal is that local users take surface water and not pump from the Chino Basin unless it becomes absolutely necessary. The MWD wants to bring the water level back to what it was 10 years ago.

The proposal will be presented for study to the Monte Vista Water District in Montclair on Wednesday night by CDM Engineering of Pasadena. Taking part in the presentation will be representatives of the MWD and the state Water Resources Department.

It will be the first time members of the West End group will get a look at the proposal, said Robert W. Thompson, manager of the Monte Vista Water District.

The engineers will later visit Upland, Chino, Ontario and the Chino Basin Municipal Water District, other members of the Joint Powers Authority.

The local authority plans to construct a $50 million water treatment plant in Upland where blended water from the Colorado River and Northern California will be processed.

That project is expected to start next year.

But state and MWD officials apparently want to get a commitment for use of the Chino Basin before the project begins.

The basin encompasses 230 square miles of area. It extends from Fontana to the Los Angeles County line and from the Riverside County line to the Chino Hills. It is the largest underground storage area in Southern California. Its safe storage capacity is 9.5 million acre feet of water.

The state would build up its surplus there and use it as a reservoir for drought years. It could do that most efficiently if the water is not siphoned off by local users.

Therefore, the Metropolitan Water District would furnish "surface water" by gravity flow to areas served by the Joint Powers Authority.

Under the state proposal, a four-foot-wide water pipe would be extended six miles from the MWD's Weymouth treatment plant in La Verne to the San Bernardino County line at Benito Street where it would be picked up by the Joint Powers Authority system. The water line is estimated to cost $13 million.

Water already treated at the Weymouth plant would be supplied to the Joint Powers Authority for distribution by gravity flow to members south of that line, thus making it unnecessary to tap the underground storage basin.

"What they're saying to us is that if we agree not to pump the basin but use the surface water they supply, we'll get the free connection," said Ernest Terra, president of the Monte Vista Water District board of directors. "But if we run short, we'll still get first crack at the basin."

Thompson said that if the connection is built, the size of the West End treatment plant could be reduced by 50 percent. This would save local users 40 percent of the cost.

Engineers estimate that during a normal year the authorities could add about 27,000 acre feet of water to the basin's underground supply. At that rate, and with normal rainfall, it could take 40 years to reach capacity.

Terra emphasized the proposal must still be approved by the Metropolitan Water District's board of directors.

As for the Upland treatment plant and its distribution system, Terra said it could be completed in three years.

Except for Monte Vista, which began levying 10 cents extra per 100 cubic feet of water a year ago, West End water agencies will have to dip into their general funds or float bond issues to pay for their share of the distribution system.

Monte Vista, because of those levies, will have its own share of the cost in hand by the time the money is needed, Terra estimated.

A Spring fling craft session for children in the first through sixth grades is scheduled for Thursday, May 20 from 3:30 p.m. Children will have an opportunity to make butterflies, flowers, origami birds, banners, and mobiles. All craft materials will be provided free of charge.

An introduction to genealogy will be presented by Susan Vargas, an experienced genealogical researcher, on Saturday, May 15, from 10 a.m. to noon. Interested individuals are invited to come and learn the steps involved in tracing family history. Reservations may be made by calling 624-4671.

Two free gardening programs will be offered during the month. Nelson Family Singers to perform Upland's own version of the famous Family Von Trapp singers immortalized in the film "Sound of Music" will perform at 6 p.m. Saturday, May 8, at Memorial Park Pavilion in Upland.

The Nelson Family Singers — all nine of them — will sing a variety of current popular songs, musical favorites and children's tunes at the free concert open to the public.

The Nelson's performance is in conjunction with a fund raising picnic dinner sponsored by Explorer Post 618 of Upland. Proceeds from the 4 to 6 p.m. picnic dinner will be used to finance several of the post's summer activities.

Reunion production of 'Godspell'

Montclair High School drama department will produce a unique musical benefit presenting a special 5-year reunion production of the acclaimed musical "Godspell," May 6,7,8 and May 13,14 and 15 at 8 p.m.

Through their own initiative, all ten original cast members of Montclair's very successful and exciting 1977 production of "Godspell" will be returning from scattered parts of California to participate in this show, which will raise much needed funds for the upkeep and, hopefully, the refurbishing of the school auditorium and its equipment.

"Godspell," a colorful, inventive and timely musical brings the parables of Jesus to a modern audience. The music is beautiful and the play touches the heart of every audience member.

Tickets will be $4, and $3 for students and children under 12. Group rates are also available in advance by calling 624-1651, extension 248.

8-lane freeway on edge of Chino Hills urged

By BOB NAGEY
Staff Writer

A $22 million program to expand Highway 71 to a full eight-lane freeway southeast of its intersection with state Route 60 is being proposed to the California Highway Commission by the Southern California Association of Governments.

Engineering work for the project could start before the end of the year.

The improvements would extend southeast to the end of the Rolling Ridge Estates in San Bernardino County — a distance of 2.6 miles — where Grand Avenue would be built.

The SCAG proposal calls for widening of the road, a better interchange with the state Route 60 and overpasses at Riverside Drive and Grand Avenue.

Special access is planned to connect the $100 million Rolling Ridge regional shopping center, proposed between Chino and Grand avenues, along the south side of the highway.

The freeway along the eastern border of the Chino Hills, a dream of San Bernardino County Supervisor Robert Townsend since he took office eight years ago, is one of several in the SCAG's six-county package for the next five years. It was approved earlier this month by its executive committee.

Other local projects include completion of the Norco Reach, the extension of Interstate 15 from the state Route 60 south to state Route 91; purchase of rights-of-way in Upland and Rancho Cucamonga along the proposed extension of state Route 30; and landscaping of the Orange and Pomona freeways in the Diamond Bar area.

Also included in the recommendation is $732 million to start work on the proposed Century Freeway in Los Angeles.

The entire five-year program is estimated to cost $2.5 billion.

SCAG, which serves as a clearing house for the six Southern California counties, will present the entire package to the California Transportation Commission on April 28 in Beverly Hills. The San Bernardino Association of Governments (SANBAG) will assist in the presentation of the San Bernardino County projects.

Ginger Gherardi, project director of the SCAG Transportation Improvement Program, said the passage last summer of Assembly Bill 215 — known as the Foran Bill after state Sen. John Foran, D-6th District — has made it possible to raise funds for sorely needed new routes.

The bill will raise state gasoline taxes by two cents starting next January. Part of the funds will be given to the counties for local road projects. The remainder will be kept by Caltrans for major highways.

The proposed 2.6-mile widening of Highway 71 is the first phase of a program to improve it beyond Euclid Avenue south of Chino. But the initial phase calls for local participation.

News briefs

Campfire annual family faire

The Campfire annual family faire will be held Saturday beginning with a folk dance festival at 11 a.m.

The faire will be held at Otterbein Regional Park (adjacent to Puente Hills Mall on Colima Road).

Game booths, activity booths and food will be offered along with exhibits of art, photography, crafts, baking, sewing and needlework. Baked goods sale will be at 3 p.m.

Volunteers being sought

San Bernardino County Department of Public Social Services is currently involved in recruiting volunteers to provide social services to the public at three local outstations administered by the Department.

According to Bart Bonner, Ontario DPSS district manager, volunteers working at outstations will be involved in providing information and referral services to clientele as well as providing short term counseling to individuals/families seeking social services involvement. Prospective volunteers will be trained regarding basic interviewing and counseling techniques as well as what is involved in appropriate referral procedures.

Bonner also stated that volunteers will gain valuable experience which should prove helpful in future employment seeking. Bonner went on to state that volunteers can work either part time or full time; prospective volunteers should be able to devote a minimum of four hours per week to their duties.

Interested prospective volunteers are invited to call Walt Goehring or Jim Wheaton at 988-1026 for further information.

Chamber asked to push annexation

By BOB NAGEY
Staff Writer

The Chino Valley Chamber of Commerce is being asked by a nucleus of chamber members to "promote and support" the annexation of the Chino Hills to the city of Chino.

The proposal was passed unanimously by members who attended the chamber's annual weekend retreat at Lake Arrowhead. Among those proposing annexation are nine of the chamber's 16 directors.

Dennis Pine, newly elected chamber president, said the resolution will be resented to the full chamber board June 14.

"We don't want to give the impression that we want to swallow up the Chino Hills," he explained. "What we are exploring is more like a merger with equal partnership for both communities."

Although the two adjoining communities share many common ties, it was the first time any group openly advocated a merger.

Chino Mayor Larry Walker lauded the chamber proposal as "a positive move, something we would certainly listen to."

But he said the city would not actively promote or spearhead the annexation.

'Sisters' program organizing

The YWCA of Greater Pomona Valley is organizing a "sisters" program to match girls ages 8 to 13 with women 18 and older in mutually-rewarding relationships.

Orientation/training sessions for the older sisters are planned tonight and May 11 at 7:30 p.m. at the Y office, 1787 N. Garey Ave., Pomona. Attendance at an orientation session does not obligate one to join the program.

Activities will be on a one-to-one basis, arranged by the pair. The older sisters are asked to provide transportation and money for occasional special activities.

Those interested should be willing to participate in the program for at least six months, with at least one shared activity per month and one contact by phone or mail per week.

Details about the program are available by calling the Y office at 622-1269 or 985-5932. Reservations are asked of those wishing to attend the orientation sessions.

La Verne WCTU to meet

The La Verne Unit of the Women's Christian Temperance Union will gather in Breon Chapel of Hillcrest Homes, Tuesday, May 11 at 2 p.m. for its regular monthly meeting.

Edna Bohr will be the Devotional Leader. Ellen Miller will lead the program centered around parents and children in the home. Mothers with young children are particularly invited to be present at this "family-oriented" meeting.

Shelter design competition

Cahutaqua I, an innovative shelter design competition featuring some of the finest students designers in southern California will be held on the Cal Poly Pomona campus Friday and Saturday. Chautauqua I will be held during Cal Poly's 40th annual Poly Vue Open House which attracts thousands of visitors to the university campus each spring.

Students from 14 high schools, trade schools, community and four-year colleges and universities will be competing in shelter design and construction. At noon on Friday, competing groups of students will begin setting up a total of 26 shelters on the lawn adjacent to the School of Environmental Design, Building 7. Echoing the theme for the 1982 competition, "Roots: Looking Back to Move Forward," the projects may range in design from wood huts to high technology geodesic domes.

The competition rules require that each shelter be completed by 9 p.m. on Friday night and must be occupied throughout the night by one or more students to prove the shelter's practicality, stability and worthiness.

The public is invited to view the construction of the shelters on Friday from noon to 9 p.m., and the completed shelters will also be on display throughout Saturday. In addition to the shelter design competition, Cal Poly's School of Environmental Design will also be the site for guest architecture lecturers and an exhibition of student and faculty work in architecture, landscape architecture and urban planning during Friday and Saturday.

Western Christian Schools purchases site

Western Christian Schools in Covina has purchased the former Girls Collegiate School at 3105 Padua Ave., Claremont, to operate as a private Christian junior high school.

The purchase was announced by William A. Koch of Pomona. The price was not disclosed.

Koch said the "long tradition of providing excellence in private Christian education by Western Christian will be extended to our second location in Claremont."

Western Christian offers a junior high school for sixth through eighth grade students and a high school for those in ninth through 12th grades in Covina.

Western Christian was founded 62 years ago as an academy of the Upland Brethren in Christ Church. It served ninth through 12th graders until it moved to a large hillside campus in Glendora when a junior high division was added.

When the academy was moved from Upland, it was changed to a Christian non-profit religious corporation with a self-perpetuating board of directors and became Western Christian Schools.

Current board members represent many Christian denominations.

Increased enrollment forced Western to move to its current 10-acre site in Covina at 1115 E. Puente St.

Koch said a long-term lease was negotiated with the Charter Oak School District for that campus. "We plan to remain there for many years," he said.

Western Christian is accredited by the Western Association of Schools and Colleges. It offers a general secondary education and college preparation program, including CIF boys and girls league sports.

Each student must complete all state requirements for graduation plus 40 units of Bible classes.

Curriculum at the Claremont school will include English, reading, science; history, math, physical education, Bible and various electives.

Koch said a sports program is planned for both boys and girls. Persons interested in enrolling may call (213) 967-0733.

The newly acquired Claremont site, said Koch, is steeped in a long tradition of events. The school was built in 1930 and operated as a girls school and a coeducational school before being purchased by Western Christian.

New interest in fine china

By LINDA BERGSTEDT
Panorama Editor

"Nancy Reagan has done more to create an interest in fine china than anyone has in a number of years," Gwen Zenerold, antique appraiser and lecturer, said during a recent antique seminar.

The Des Moines, Iowa, antique expert lectured on the value of collecting porcelain as an investment during the first day of a two-day seminar sponsored by Assistance League of Upland at its League Center in Cucamonga.

"Three women with flair have lived in the White House and have had a style that has affected the world.

"Nancy Reagan is one, and of course, Jackie Kennedy, is another. But do you know who the third one was?" she asked her audience.

"Dolley Madison."

She suggested that the current first lady's purchase of new Lenox china for the White House has spurred a renewed interest in fine porcelain.

The top 10 porcelain makers in the world, she said, are Lenox, Picard, (Danish) Royal Copenhagen, Haviland, Rosenthal, Royal Worcester, Royal Crown Derby, Belleek, Dalton and Meissen.

"China is where it all began 4,000 years ago," Mrs. Zenerold said.

It was named porcelain by Marco Polo, who was the first European to see Chinese porcelain in the mid-13th century. The Chinese had guarded their secrets and kept their technology hidden from the outside world for many years.

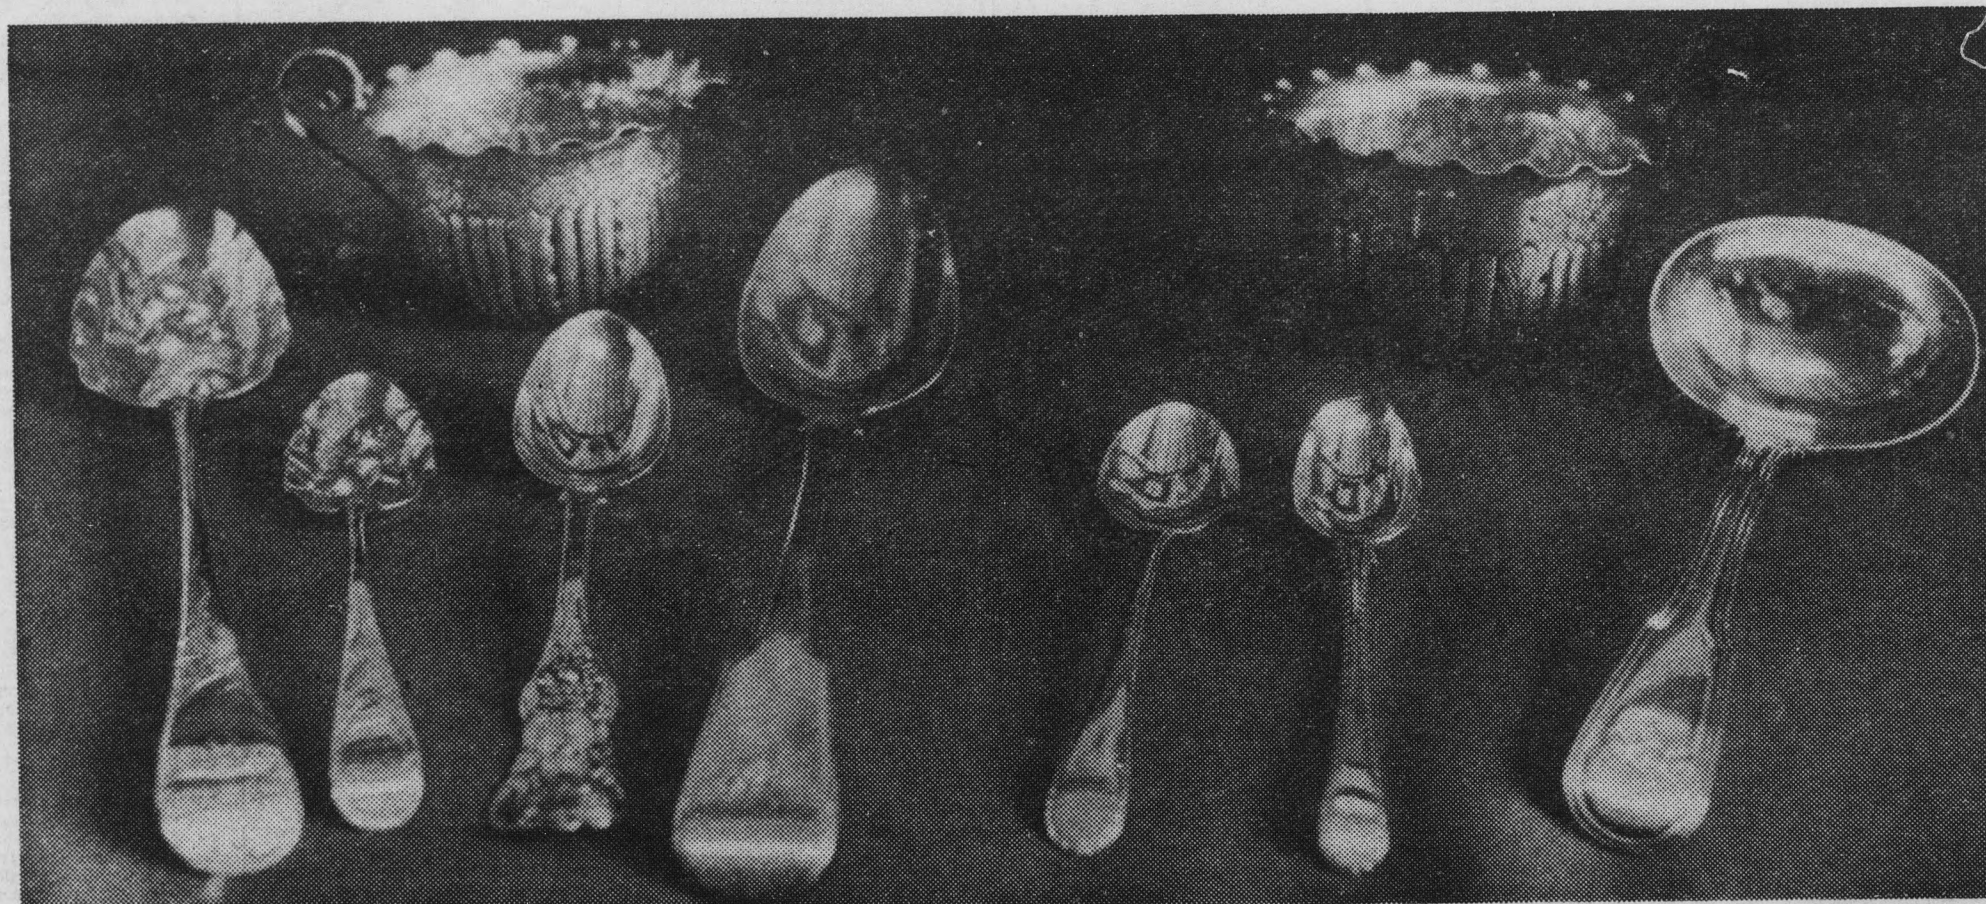

Marco Polo called it porcelain because it reminded him of a shellfish — porcelliana.

Tom Tondoe/The Daily Report

Fine china is the desire of all who appreciate gracious living. This Lenox china is in the "Autumn" pattern with the rim and center design in brown, orange and blue tones. The fine porcelain was photographed at Wight Jeweler, Ontario. Gwen Zenerold, antique appraiser and lecturer, said Nancy Reagan has "done more to create an interest in fine china than anyone in a number of years."

Examples of fine English sterling silver pieces are displayed here at Barbara Cheatley Antiques, Claremont. Starting from the left is a large, fancy fruit spoon of 1792, a small fruit spoon of 1805, ornate teaspoon of 1865, tablespoon of 1815, two small spoons of the early 18th century and a gravy ladle of 1789. In the back are an English plate creamer and sugar bowl circa 1860. There are many ways to distinguish fine silver through hallmarks. Silver is considered a good investment for 1982 according to Gwen Zenerold, antique expert and appraiser.

Appraiser says antique silver a good investment

By LINDA BERGSTEDT
Panorama Editor

"Most experts maintain that one of the best buys for investments in 1982 is silver," said Gwen Zenerold, antique expert and appraiser from Des Moines, Iowa.

"A few years ago there was an artificial market for silver, but now most sterling silver is 70 to 85 percent off because the market is down, but this low is not permanent," she stressed.

"American and English Silver" was Mrs. Zenerold's topic during the second day of a two-day antique seminar she conducted at Assistance League of Upland's Center in Cucamonga. The seminar was sponsored by the league and was open to the public.

"Silver is a fluctuating commodity.

This is the time to buy," the appraiser stressed.

"The low silver price is reflected in the antique market too," she said, adding she felt that a minimum of 10 percent of an investment portfolio should be in antiques and collectibles.

In describing alloys as a combination of two or more metals, the speaker said that most metals we like — brass, bronze, pewter and silver — are alloys containing copper as a component.

"When silver is marked sterling that is a guarantee. It must be 92.5 percent solid silver. The other percentage is composed of varying ingredients, and 99.9 percent silver is too soft to be practical."

English silver originated more than 600 years ago, and by an act of Parliament all silversmiths were obligated to mark their silver.
